Novena Prayer to St. Anthony of Padua

O holy St. Anthony, gentlest of saints, your love for God and charity for His creatures, made you worthy, when on earth to possess miraculous powers. Miracles waited on your word which your were ever ready to speak on behalf of those in trouble or anxiety. Encouraged by this thought, I ask you to obtain for me

The answer to my prayer may require a miracle; even so, you are the Saint of miracles. O gentle and loving St. Anthony, whose heart was ever full of human sympathy, whisper my petition into the ear of the Sweet Infant Jesus, Who loved to be folded in your arms, and the gratitude of my heart will be ever yours. Amen.

Masses, Intentions, etc.

From time to time, you may see "Unscheduled Mass", or "No Mass" in the Mass Schedule column, with a Mass Intentions listed. These may occur during Holiday times when the Offices are closed, or during time that Fr. May be on retreat, vacation, etc.

"Unscheduled" Mass indicates that Mass will be offered at St. Anthony, but at the time of publishing, the exact time is unknown. "No" Mass, followed by an intention indicates that while Mass will not be offered at St. Anthony, Fr. is still offering Mass each day, using a list of our Mass requests for the intention.

I hope this alleviates any confusion; rest assured all Mass requests scheduled through the Parish Office and listed in the bulletin are indeed offered. Please don't hesitate to contact the Parish Office if there are any questions.

May God Bless you!

St. Anthony Young Adult Group: Nova Rigiditas

"Push back against the age as hard as it pushes against you." - Flannery O'Conner

In an age where our values are dismissed as backward and medieval, now more than ever young Catholics must unite to bolster one another in the Faith.

Our young adult group, Nova Rigiditas, meets a few times monthly for prayer, Holy Mass and spiritually formative talks, and lighthearted recreation and fellowship. We emphasize the Latin Mass, the rosary, and our ancient traditional roots.

Today's Culture of Death can only be pushed back if a Culture of Catholicism rises to cross swords with it, for it's young Catholics who will determine the future of the Church.

If you or someone you know between the ages of 18-35 is interested in joining, please contact our young adult leader:

Spiritual Communion:

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things and I desire to receive You in my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, Come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there And unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen.

St. Anthony of Padua Catholic Church

We have nearly arrived. After enduring the long months of frost and chill that winter brings, as well as the social anxiety and discord of riots, political controversies, and pandemic fears, the warmth of summer is now within view. We have reached the month of June with all of the beauty, warmth, light, and sacredness of the blessed month dedicated to our Lord's Most Sacred Heart. Of course, the secular world has also 'consecrated' this month in a far darker fashion. Indeed, it seems that we are unable to conduct business, drive on the freeway, or watch media entertainment without being exposed to some visual monument to the prince of the seven deadly sins. Pride is now exalted as a virtue and any disagreement will be punished.

It has been brought to my attention that among the various disordered celebrations within the popular sphere, there is a theme song that has been played on the children's programing station 'Nickelodeon". The catchy theme song, accompanied by bright and flashy color schemes, has children across our nation singing along with the lyrics "be true to you!" As I began to consider the message that was being implied, I also heard a commentator who criticized the message as being a reflection of the initial and fundamental flaw of humanity. "Be true to you!" implies that truth, the reality of who and what we are, is a subjective question. It suggests that in order to be authentic we must look within ourselves to find the truth of the greatest questions of life and human existence. From this perspective, all notions of what is good, what is true, what is beautiful, all become subject to the individual's judgement in the formation of "their own truth". This subjective reality then must be embraced, demonstrated to the world around us, and celebrated if we are to live authentically—if we are to be 'true' to ourselves. The above-mentioned commentator stated that this mentality is a modern-day version of the original fall of humanity. The fall of Adam and Eve is now being celebrated as embracing our 'true selves'. We are once again reaching for the forbidden fruit of knowledge that we might have the power to determine what is good and what is evil.

The commentator was correct from the perspective of faith and revelation. However, it dawned on me that this theme song would likely have been judged abhorrent from the perspective of classical philosophy as well. The ancient Greeks, who were by no means known for their puritanical views on human sexuality, had formulated a simple understanding of mental health. They held that human beings have senses and a rational mind. They also suggested that there was a world and a reality that existed independently from this human mind. The mind comes into contact with the reality outside of itself through the senses. We see, we feel, we smell the reality outside of ourselves and thus we come to know of the world outside of our minds. The ancient Greeks held that mental health was to be found in the agreement of our internal thoughts with the external world that we perceived. To the extent that the mind agreed with reality, that mind was considered to be healthy. To the extent that there was disagreement, the mind was considered to be unsound. Yet, the idea that discord between the mind and the world was to be blamed upon the world or the perceptions of third parties was unthinkable. The mind was to be brought into agreement with reality, reality was not to be brought into agreement with the mind. Such a suggestion would have been considered ludicrous; now it is considered empowering.

The Catholic faith has consistently taught that God has revealed Himself and His plan for salvation by means of Sacred Scripture and Sacred Tradition. Yet, we have also taught that some aspects of the creator can be seen and learned from the creation. "The heavens proclaim the glory of God…(Ps. 19)". In times past, the foundation of Christendom—the society and culture build upon the Christian faith and ethic, was shaken as aspects of revelation were questioned and then rejected. Sacred Tradition was challenged and rejected by the Protestant 'Reformers'. Sacred Scripture was challenged by modern biblical critics and then rejected in part or whole by modernists and atheists alike. We now seem to have reached the stage when even the natural world around us has become too restrictive. We are now actively rejecting the basic truths that nature presents us and are demanding that nature summits to our own whims and desires. The difficulty is that nature doesn't care! We believe in a benevolent and compassionate God—not a benevolent and compassionate world. Nature is totally unconcerned with how the human race perceives reality. It will continue to operate in accordance with the laws and principles with which it was created. I will not speculate on this reflection or the negative consequences of this popular movement…but I do not believe that the outcome will be pleasing to any of us.

We believe that the world itself is a creation of the Almighty and we seek to live, to love, and to pursue holiness and happiness within this world while striving to find blessedness in the world to come. As we encounter such radical ideas hidden within signs, memes, advertisements, and children's songs, let us remain standfast in our conviction that this is not harmless. Reality is the framework in which we have our being. Let us never waver from the truth that we must always find our way within reality and not in defiance of what the Almighty has created.

God love you,
Fr. Slaton

Gospel Meditation: June 13, 2021 - 11th Sunday in Ordinary Time

A favorite motto of St. Teresa of Calcutta was, "do small things with great love." This is how it works in the kingdom of God. God can do tremendous things with the smallest gesture, especially when it is done in love. We can clearly see that our world is suffering greatly. People are struggling to find peace, navigate through conflicts, earn a sustainable living, find security and enough food to eat, and work through political tensions and conflicts. In the light of the magnitude of the difficulties that exist around us and even within us, we can find ourselves floundering to discover practical, effective solutions. How can something so large be helped by someone as small and seemingly insignificant as me? While whole systems and structures may be out of the league of our personal influence, are we really that helpless in the midst of all of the turmoil, sadness, and suffering?

If we believe that God is with us and that God is still working to bring about the glory of God's kingdom, then the answer is no. We are never helpless or without hope. Armed with a strong life of prayer, we can always flee to God and ask for inspiration, wisdom, and especially love. We are all blessed with unique gifts and talents and it often seems that considering all that the world lacks, love and charity remain at the top of the list. Life can easily become a battleground of hostility. Because life is challenging and difficult, anger is not far away. We see it on people's faces and hear it in their voices. There is a measure of frustration that permeates all avenues of life. It is even felt in the air.

As people of faith, we know that what we see here is not the end but only a part of something far greater to come. We know that God's kingdom is where we are ultimately meant to be, and the Gospel is the way to get there. If love and charity can prevail in us, then God will be able to do what God does best. God will use us to scatter the seeds of his kingdom. Through our small gestures, those seeds can receive the nurturing attention that is necessary for them to bear great fruit. We cannot fall victim to the strife that is around us. We have to keep ourselves refreshed and focused so that even in small ways, we can become part of the solution, not the problem. Love and charity, which come from God, can help to heal the ills of the world. May we bring these simple gifts to the everyday simple tasks of our lives! Watch how big the plant grows!

St. Anthony Can Find Anything — Even You

"Tony, Tony, come around! Something is lost and it must be found." Did you learn this one when you were a kid? In my experience there are even a lot of lapsed Catholics — or people who were never Catholic at all — who know that when you lose something, St. Anthony becomes your best friend. Missing keys? Pray to St. Anthony. Can't find your favorite sweater? St. Anthony. Forget where you parked your car in the mall lot? St. Anth— okay, you get the idea. Whatever it is, large or small, important or trivial, Tony has a reputation for finding the lost things. It's a devotion that can seem a little like superstition — witchcraft, even? — if you don't really understand it. Mumble an incantation to a dead guy and you're guaranteed to find your sunglasses. But as with most traditions that are old, beloved and effective, looking a little closer reveals the truth of the matter. When we lose something really important, what do we do? We make the whole household stop what they're doing to join the search. Having St. Anthony as a friend means you ask him to stop what he's doing to help, too. And how he helps is by taking the matter exactly where all matters need to go — straight to the feet of Christ. Here's the real genius of St Anthony: he takes the most mundane, commonplace occurrence — misplacing socks — into an encounter with the divine and truly all things great and small are gifts from God. He grabs our hand and points to the cross. "That's what you're looking for," he tells us. In the end, Tony doesn't really find the lost things. He finds the lost people.
